LOT 8776 - World War II Era Estey Military Field Organ

Description

Good Condition for the age of the equipment. Organ sounds and works as intended, however has lost it's kickstand that holds the keyboard portion upright for use. Also the music rack that holds sheet music for the player has broken off. Minor repairs and in the right hands, this mobile organ could be restored.

Offering morale and peace to the troops. These small pump organs were distributed during World War II to chaplains. Designed for transport, folding down into it's own shell.

This olive drab field organ stands out as being a unique piece of history, showcasing the humanity in times of war.
