LOT 8800 - World War I & II Era Carrier Pigeon Cage

Description

Appears to be in excellent condition for the age of the item. Leather handle is stamped with what appears to read as "R. Dennler -Bern-35", Bern is the capital of Switzerland.

Carrier pigeons were used to communicate with positions without needlessly endangering soldiers.

Made of wicker cage walls, netted roof, and 4 stakes. The wicker cage unfolds and can be placed on the ground, laying the netted roof on top, and stakes that hold it all together at the corners. Giving the pigeons a little more room to stretch their wings when not being moved around in it's folded up carrier.
